

APPLIED POLITICS, MAP

The Master of Applied Politics is one of just a few programs in the United States focusing on practical politics and experiential learning. It is designed for students interested in working in election campaigns, digital strategy and messaging, fundraising, managing organizations, government relations, civic engagement, and other political activities. Our modern curriculum produces graduates with real, tangible skills, who will be ready to make their mark in their chosen field immediately. All courses are delivered either live online (with an in-person component for those located in Northeast Ohio) or asynchronously online, thus allowing students to take classes and complete the program from anywhere in the world.

Admission Requirements

Admission is open to students who have completed a four-year undergraduate degree and who fulfill the admission requirements of the Graduate School. Two letters of recommendation (at least one from a faculty member) and a personal statement outlining the expected fit between the student's skills and objectives and the department's programs and resources are required. No specific field of undergraduate major is required for admission. The Graduate Record Examination (GRE) is not required. The program is designed to accommodate students taking course work full or part-time. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis.

Degree Requirements

Students must complete a minimum of 30 credits of graduate work composed of core and elective courses, at least one internship, and a capstone presentation.

MAP Capstone Project

All students are required to construct a PowerPoint (or other visual presentation) and defend a capstone project which demonstrates knowledge and skills earned while in the MAP program. The capstone presentation can be completed using distance learning/remote technology if the student cannot be present on the UA campus.
