Minor in Economics (325000M)

The economics minor is an 18-credit program with sufficient flexibility to complement any major at UA. Students are trained in basic economic theory along with critical thinking skills required to investigate real world economic problems. A wide variety of electives can be selected in consultation with your academic advisor to meet your specific program needs and to differentiate your resume from others to employers upon graduation. The minor in economics is typically paired with business majors such as finance and accounting, applied mathematics, education, and political science.
